Thanks Allyn. I have provided my thoughts on the comments attached.

Heidi – I emphasized in my weekly with David that getting you something mid-day tomorrow would still be very much mid-stream and he completely understands and said you should keep working on the document (and I told him that was our plan).

I shared with him our conversation where I said I thought the doc was “80% there” and you responded that you thought more like 60%. His response was: “That shows how Heidi is such a good lawyer.”

So I think it is well understood that what you provide to him is very much a work in progress and he has nothing but respect for you and your work (as do I). So amidst the very stressful task at hand, I encourage you to try to be ok with doing what you can in the time allotted and how much the rest of us are impressed and pleased by the great work product you are producing.

Ex. 5 Deliberative Process (DP)

Ex. 5 Deliberative Process (DP) I told David at our weekly we’d be ready but no read-aheads for matt’s folder and an evolving process on some of the issues and he said something like, “Well, when you ask for something fast, you get what you get.” So you’re not alone and you’re doing fabulous in exceeding any possible expectations under extraordinary time pressure.

Between Steve's comments and our conversation today, I think we've discussed my concerns. I just have three suggestions highlighted in this draft – you may now be beyond this draft, but thought I would send anyways. They start on page 10.
